

Much more information about Mingarry can be seen at moidart.org.uk/archaeology/Mingarry

- 1 8856/70112. (31/1/2008).
- 2 68860/70145. (31/1/2008).
- 3 68817/70174. (31/1/2008).
- 4 68858/70254. (31/1/2008).

5

A view from south-west.
68874/70260. (31/1/2008).

6 68816/70331. (31/1/2008).

7 68832/70317. (31/1/2008).

8

A view from west. 68889/70111.
(31/1/2008).

9

A building ~7.5 x 4m. Beside it there is a set of semi-organised stones in a semi-circle. 68947/70412.
(22/2/2008).

10 This building is about 12m from 9 and ~25m from the burn. ~5 x 3m. One end is straight and the other curved. There is a doorway to the north-east. 68966/70404. (22/2/2008).

View from north-west.

View from north

11 and 12

The far-away pole is in site 11.
The nearer pole is in site 12.

Building 11 ~8 x 3m. There is a gap of ~2m from 10. There is a doorway to the east. 68969/70396. (22/2/2008).

Building 12 ~5 x 3m. There is a doorway to the east and it is ~8m from 13. 68967/70388. (22/2/2008).

13 and 14

13 A semi-circular enclosure to a small rock face. It is next to 14 and 8m from 12. 68976/70384. (22/2/2008).

14 A stone enclosure from the burn to buildings 13 and 11. 68978/70347. (22/2/2008).

A general view of sites 9, 10, 11, 12.

15 There are extensive lazybeds to the west of 9. (22/2/2008).

16

An oval enclosure. Beinn Bhreac. 6850/7130. (31/1/2008).

17 Lazybeds. Glac Ealagainn. 69697/69900. (30/9/2010).

18

A shieling beside lazybeds. ~6m long externally. There is a doorway to 170°. 69647/69902. (30/9/2010).

19 An enclosure which is not very visible because of bracken coverage. Altitude 55m.
69645/70051. (30/9/2010).

20

The furthest point examined.
Lochan Glac Ealagain 6958/7054.
(30/9/2010).

little loch of the hollow of deer
hunting. glac f = a valley, hollow.
èileag = a V-shaped place for deer hunting.

